Introduction

Training Qualifications UK is committed to ensuring any decisions it makes remain fair, reliable and provide accurate and comparable results, however, we recognise that there may be situations where an individual wishes to appeal a decision or judgement TQUK has made.

As such, TQUK offers the below Appeals Policy in order to provide external parties with a means to contest decisions made by TQUK, where an individual or organisation reasonably believes TQUK has not followed its procedures and processes correctly and therefore has not made its decisions and judgements fairly.

Internal Responsibility

The Regulatory Compliance Pillar is responsible for the maintenance and compliance of this policy. If the Compliance Manager is absent, the Responsible Officer will appoint another member of the Leadership Team to ensure all of TQUK's actions and activities are in line with the content of this policy.

Review arrangements

We will review the policy annually as part of our self-evaluation process and revise it as and when necessary, in response to feedback, trends from our internal monitoring arrangements, changes in our practices, actions from the regulatory authorities or external agencies, or changes in legislation.

The annual review of this policy will be undertaken by the Regulatory Compliance Pillar approximately four weeks prior to the submission of TQUK's Statement of Compliance to our regulators. Any amendments or updates to this policy will be approved by TQUK's Leadership Team.

Where the regulators notify TQUK of failures that have been discovered in the appeals processes of another awarding organisation, TQUK will review whether or not a similar failure could affect our appeal processes and arrangements and take action to amend this policy where necessary.

Who can appeal?

1. A TQUK Recognised Centre

A TQUK Recognised Centre may wish to appeal decisions TQUK has made concerning the centre, specifically quality assurance decisions such as application of a sanction on a Recognised Centre following an investigation into malpractice or maladministration.

A Recognised Centre may wish to query the results of a Learner's, or a cohort of Learners', assessment, the process for which is covered under the 'Enquiry About Results' section of this policy. Recognised Centres must retain all qualification evidence until they receive their results, and throughout any appeals process. It will only be possible to appeal the result of an assessment if the qualification evidence is retained for review.

2. A Training Provider

A Training Provider may appeal if it believes TQUK has not followed its procedures fairly and consistently when coming to an assessment decision regarding one of its Apprentices. The Training Provider must have written consent from the Apprentice before appealing in this way, as the result of any appeal may impact their grade.

Training Providers should be aware that no assessment activities may take place once an appeal has been opened, including resits or retakes. Any activities scheduled to take place while an appeal is ongoing will be postponed. An appeal is considered open once receipt of the Appeals Form has been confirmed.

3. A Learner undertaking a regulated qualification that is not an End-Point Assessment

A Learner undertaking a regulated qualification that is not an End-Point Assessment with a Recognised Centre may wish to query the results of an assessment, in which case they should contact their centre. Recognised Centres may make an Enquiry about Results on behalf of a Learner.

4. An Apprentice undertaking End-Point Assessment with TQUK

An Apprentice undertaking End-Point Assessment with TQUK who believes procedures have not been applied fairly and consistently in arriving at a judgement of attainment must first consult with their Training Provider if they wish to query a decision made by TQUK. Appeals relating to End-Point Assessment provision must be submitted by the Training Provider.

Learners undertaking a TQUK endorsed course

Learners undertaking a TQUK endorsed course with a TQUK Recognised Centre should utilise the centre's own appeals process and are not able to appeal directly to TQUK as TQUK is not involved in assessment decisions relating to endorsed courses. Such a Learner is still entitled to make a complaint about a TQUK Recognised Centre in relation to an endorsed course and should consult the Complaints Policy to establish how to make a complaint about a centre.

The Appellant

For the purposes of this document, the Appellant is considered to be the person or organisation who completes and submits the Appeal Form, as outlined in the 'Appeals Process' section, or who makes the Enquiry About Results, as detailed in the 'Enquiry About Results (EAR)' section.

Appeal Routes

There are two routes for an appeal:

- Enquiry About Results (EAR), which consists of either:
 - Clerical Check / Review of Marking, or
 - Review of Moderation.
- Formal Appeal.

An EAR is the appropriate route where the Appellant specifically wishes to enquire about the result of an examination set by TQUK, specifically:

- A clerical check applies to externally set examinations marked by TQUK.
- A Review of Moderation applies to externally set, internally marked assessments subject to moderation.

See the section 'The Enquiry About Results (EAR) Process'.

A Formal Appeal is the appropriate route where an Appellant wishes to challenge any other outcome. See the section 'The Formal Appeal Process'.

Fees

Appeals may be subject to a fee. Details of our fees can be found on the respective TQUK website for awarding or End-Point Assessment.

Appeals relating to access arrangements, reasonable adjustments or special consideration

The process by which a decision is made on whether to apply reasonable adjustments or special considerations is outlined in the Reasonable Adjustments and Special Considerations policy. A Recognised Centre or Training Provider who wishes to appeal such a decision should consult the Reasonable Adjustments and Special Consideration Policy first in order to understand the process TQUK applies when deciding whether or not to apply a reasonable adjustment or special consideration.

If, after consulting the relevant policy, the Recognised Centre or Training Provider disagrees with the decision made and has reasonable grounds to believe that TQUK has not followed its processes and procedures correctly, then an appeal should be made following the process below.

Timeframe for submitting an appeal

For an appeal not related to an End-Point Assessment, an Appellant has 4 weeks from the date TQUK notifies the individual of the decision in question in which to submit the Appeals Form. This includes assessment results.

For an appeal contesting the result of an End-Point Assessment, a prospective Appellant must notify TQUK within 2 weeks following the issuing of results that they intend to appeal the outcome. If notification of the intent to appeal is not received within 2 weeks, it will not be possible to conduct an appeal, as after this period the outcome will be confirmed and processed. The prospective Appellant will then have up to the usual 4 weeks from the issue of the result in which to submit the completed Appeals Form, with any supporting documentation attached.

The Enquiry About Results (EAR) Process

An EAR is a review of the administration, marking and/or moderation of a particular assessment component or examination script for an examination which has been externally marked (by TQUK) or has been internally marked (at a Recognised Centre) and externally moderated (by TQUK). This is the appropriate course of action where:

- a Learner's results differ widely from the reasonable expectation of their assessor where an assessment has been externally marked.
- a Learner's results are unexpected compared to their peers or other members of their cohort where an assessment has been externally marked.
- a cohort's results as a whole differ widely from the reasonable expectation of their assessor where an assessment has been externally moderated but was internally marked.
- an Apprentice's examination result differs widely from the reasonable expectation of their on-programme assessor.

An EAR only applies to appeals about the results of End-Point Assessment components which are examinations set and marked by TQUK, such as an MCQ assessment component. An EAR does not apply to the results of an End-Point Assessment in its entirety, and will only address issues related specifically to the examination. Likewise, an EAR does not apply to invigilator decisions. Apprentices and Training Providers should use the normal appeals procedure for appeals relating to other elements of an End-Point Assessment.

A Recognised Centre or Training Provider may apply to receive the script from an examination before deciding to pursue an EAR by notifying TQUK, who will forward an electronic copy of the scripts. This is only possible where an examination is delivered as part of a session and is subsequently retired, rather than in live 'on-demand' use.

EARs must be submitted by the Recognised Centre or Training Provider. If an individual Learner or Apprentice wishes to make an EAR, they should contact their centre or Training Provider, who will be able to enquire on their behalf.

There are two routes to follow when making an EAR depending on the assessment:

- a clerical check, which may be followed by a review of marking, appeals the results of an individual Learner or Apprentice's externally marked examination
- a review of moderation appeals the results for a cohort of Learners who undertook and internally marked externally moderated assessment.

Clerical Check

A clerical check is conducted to ascertain that the marking of the assessment has been recorded and processed correctly, namely that:

- all sections of the exam paper have been marked
- marks have been recorded accurately and added up correctly
- where applicable, grade boundaries have been applied correctly to produce the final grade
- where applicable, special considerations have been applied accurately
- no administrative errors have occurred when applying the mark scheme.

If a discrepancy is found, TQUK will arrange for any errors to be rectified. It is important to note that results may go up, down or stay the same as the result of this kind of review. As such, the Appellant must obtain written consent from Learners or Apprentices before asking for a clerical check.

A clerical check is expected to take 10 working days from when the Appellant formally instructs TQUK to undertake the check. TQUK will inform the Appellant if circumstances dictate that this timescale cannot be met.

Review of Marking

Once a clerical check has been conducted and the Appellant has been notified of the outcome, an Appellant may request a further review of the original marking to establish if the mark scheme has been applied correctly. The review will ascertain whether or not the mark scheme has been applied correctly and, where applicable, academic judgements are reasonable.

The review of marking will be conducted by an assessor who was not involved in the marking of the original script, of suitable competence, and appointed and trained by TQUK. The reviewer will not re-mark the entire script but will act to amend any errors identified in the original marking.

A review of marking is expected to take 10 working days from when the Appellant formally instructs TQUK to undertake the review. TQUK will inform an Appellant if circumstances dictate that this timescale cannot be met, such as if appropriately qualified reviewers are not immediately available.

Review of Moderation

Please note that this type of review does not apply to End-Point Assessment.

For assessments where moderation is used, (i.e. those that are internally marked but externally moderated) following completion of a clerical check, the Recognised Centre may appeal the results of the moderation process, in which case TQUK will review the original moderation to ensure that the changes have been made fairly, reliably and have been consistently applied.

If a Recognised Centre has concerns about one of its cohorts, then it should submit requests for a review of moderation for all candidates in the cohort. Written consent of all learners in the cohort involved is required for a Recognised Centre to appeal about moderation.

A review of moderation is expected to take 20 working days from when the Recognised Centre formally instructs TQUK to undertake the review. TQUK will inform a Recognised Centre if circumstances dictate that this timescale cannot be met.

The Formal Appeal Process

Grounds for Appeal

A Formal Appeal is the process through which an Appellant can dispute that TQUK have applied procedures fairly, appropriately and in line with its policies. For a Formal Appeal to be successful, the Appellant must prove on the balance of probability that TQUK has not acted in line with its procedures in fairly arriving at a judgement.

The Appellant must have genuine cause to believe TQUK has not followed its procedures and will have to explain the reasons why they believe this.

A Recognised Centre or Training Provider may appeal when it has genuine cause to believe TQUK has:

- Made an administrative error
- Made an unreasonable exercise of academic judgement
- Failed to consistently apply its procedures.

If you are unsure as to whether you have eligible grounds for an appeal, we encourage an initial enquiry to be made to the Compliance Team, who will be able to advise on whether or not your enquiry would constitute a Formal Appeal.

If a Formal Appeal is submitted and the grounds are unclear, TQUK may ask for clarification before commencing the investigation.

The Formal Appeal

The Appellant must complete and submit the Appeals Form to formally begin the process. The Appellant should clearly set out the grounds for appeal in their submission, considering the 'Grounds for Appeal' section of this policy.

The Appellant must provide any relevant supporting evidence they believe may inform their case to TQUK at the point of submission. Evidence submitted at a later date will not be considered. The supporting evidence must include the contents and outcome of any existing investigation carried out relating to the issue, and the Appellant is encouraged to include transcripts and email threads of any relevant communications where possible, or a timeline of activities.

Where acting on behalf of an Apprentice, a Training Provider must obtain explicit written consent from the Apprentice in writing before lodging the Formal Appeal, and confirm that the Apprentice has been informed that results can go up, down or remain the same as the result of a Formal Appeal. TQUK may request to see proof of this consent in writing.

TQUK will confirm receipt of the Formal Appeal within 2 working days. The Formal Appeal stage will take 20 working days from the day the Formal Appeal was opened. This date will be communicated with the Appellant on confirmation of receipt.

The investigation into the Formal Appeal will be conducted by a suitably competent TQUK staff member who has had no prior involvement in any decisions or investigations relating to the outcome in question.

Results of the Formal Appeal

Following the conclusion of the Formal Appeal, TQUK will notify the Appellant of its decision to either:

- Uphold the Formal Appeal and amend the original decision in light of the new rationale/evidence being put forward and which has now been reviewed, or;
- Not-Uphold the Formal Appeal, confirming that TQUK stands by the original decision, and in doing so the rationale for making this decision, or;
- Not-Uphold the Formal Appeal, confirming that TQUK stands by the original decision, however, recognises that shortcomings have been identified in the processes and procedures which led to the decision being made.

TQUK will always attempt where possible to describe to the Appellant any next steps which can be taken by any Apprentices or Learners involved to achieve a satisfactory outcome.

TQUK requests that within 10 working days of receiving notification of the result of a Formal Appeal, an Appellant confirms to TQUK if they accept this decision or if they wish to proceed to TQUK's Independent Review process. If no response has been received from the Appellant within this time TQUK will consider the decision to have been accepted and the matter closed.

The Independent Review

If an Appellant has received the results of an appeal which has not been upheld and has genuine cause to believe that TQUK has not followed its Appeals Policy and procedure in determining the outcome of the appeal, they may choose not to accept the result, and instead proceed to an independent review stage.

To support this, the Appellant will be asked to detail the reasons why they believe TQUK did not follow its Appeals Policy and procedure, and come to a fair and valid judgement. TQUK will only progress an appeal to this stage if suitable grounds are provided.

If an Appellant chooses to proceed to an independent review, remedial steps suggested at the conclusion of the formal appeal stage will not be applied. Once the independent review is complete, any remedial steps recommended by the independent review will be applied instead.

TQUK will appoint an independent reviewer to consider the case. The independent reviewer will be a person with the competence required to make a decision in relation to the appeal and will not have a personal interest in the outcome. As such, the independent reviewer will not be an employee of, an Assessor working for, or otherwise connected to TQUK.

The purpose of the independent review is to ascertain if TQUK has applied its appeals procedures fairly, appropriately and in line with its policies. In order for an appeal to be successful, the Appellant must prove on the balance of probability that TQUK has not acted in line with its appeals procedures in fairly arriving at a judgement.

The independent review would normally take the form of a desk-based review and include the opportunity for the reviewer to seek clarification on points raised by the Appellant.

The exact method of obtaining any clarification will be decided upon by TQUK in collaboration with the Appellant. For example, where it is not practicable for all parties to conduct a face-to-face meeting, TQUK along with the Appellant and the independent reviewer may explore an appropriate technical solution to conducting the meeting remotely.

All of TQUK's records regarding the appeal will be made available to the reviewer.

It will not be possible for further materials to be submitted for consideration as part of the review by any party.

Where any material could be considered confidential, TQUK will take any necessary steps to ensure compliance with data protection legislation.

If the independent review finds that TQUK has not followed its procedures properly and fairly, it will determine any remedial action to be taken. Irrespective of the outcome of the independent review, it may make recommendations to TQUK on any areas for improvement it has identified through the process and any measures that could be put into place to address these.

Further Avenues

If an Appellant continues to believe that processes have not been properly followed, a complaint may be made to the regulators. TQUK can provide advice on who to contact and which regulator is applicable to the case.

An Appellant who remains dissatisfied with the procedures and processes followed by TQUK in relation to a Regulated Qualification that is not an End-Point Assessment delivered by a Recognised Centre based in England can complain to Ofqual using the below contact details:

By Email to: public.enquiries@ofqual.gov.uk

By Letter to:

Complaints - Ofqual
Earlsdon Park
53-55 Butts Road
Coventry
CV1 3BH

An Appellant who remains dissatisfied with the procedures and processes followed by TQUK in relation to a Regulated Qualification that is not an End-Point Assessment delivered by a Recognised Centre based in Northern Ireland can complain to the Council for the Curriculum, Examinations and Assessment (CCEA) using the below contact details:

Through the online Complaints Form via the website www.ccea.org.uk

By Telephone on 028 9026 1200

By Email to complaints@ccea.org.uk

In all of these cases, the regulator will seek to confirm that procedures have been followed correctly and not reassess work. In all but exceptional circumstances, it will also be necessary for the Appellant to have completed the appeal and independent review stages of this appeals process before a complaint will be accepted by the regulators.

An Appellant who has appealed on behalf of an Apprentice undertaking End-Point Assessment can complain to the Education and Skills Funding Agency (ESFA) using the below contact details:

By Email to: complaints.ESFA@education.gov.uk
